

The Journal
OF THE ANCIENT NEAR
EASTERN SOCIETY

The Journal
OF THE ANCIENT NEAR
EASTERN SOCIETY

VOLUME 34

Jewish Theological Seminary, 3080 Broadway, New York, NY 10027
Copyright © ANE Society 2020
US ISSN 0010-2016

The Journal of the Ancient Near Eastern Society 34 (2020)

Editors: Edward L. Greenstein, David Marcus

Managing Editor: Shalom E. Holtz

Associate Editors: Allan S. Gilbert, Wayne Horowitz, Murray H. Lichtenstein,
Karen R. Nemet-Nejat, Holly Pittman, Diane M. Sharon,
Daniel C. Snell

Assistant Editor and Technical Consultant: David DeLauro

The Journal of the Ancient Near Eastern Society welcomes articles on all aspects of the ancient Near East. Manuscripts, which must be typed double-spaced in MS Word according to Journal style, and all illustrations should be submitted electronically, together with a PDF version, to the Managing Editor (sholtz@yu.edu). Style guidelines may be obtained on request.

The Journal is now available on-line without charge. All previously published articles are accessible on our website: <https://janes.scholasticahq.com/>

Several back issues, including the special expanded volumes, are available in hard copy (originally published form). Please send orders to damarcus@jtsa.edu

This periodical is indexed in the American Theological Library Association Religion Database and its articles are summarized in Old Testament Abstracts (the Catholic Biblical Association of America).

The Journal of the Ancient Near Eastern Society 34 (2020)

Table of Contents

	Preface	i
Idan Breier	Man's Best Friend: The Comradeship between Man and Dog in the Lands of the Bible	1
Tova Forti	Hunting and Searching: Contrasting Patterns of Female Behavior in Wisdom Literature	22
Mitka R. Golub	Theophoric Elements in Names on Hebrew Bullae from the Kaufman Collection: A Comparative Study	42
Wayne Horowitz	A New Source for The Great Star List, Its Ancient Name, and Issues for Further Study	68
ShinAe Kim	The Waning of Dialogue in Post-Biblical Wisdom Literature	82
Scott Noegel	When Animals Speak	107
Ilan Peled	Bestiality in Hittite Thought	136
Nili Wazana	Wordplays in the Visions of Amos	178
Shamir Yona	The Construct Genitive Phrase and its Component Parts in Parallelistic Structures	207
Yisca Zimran	Multiple Facets of God: Divine-Human Relations in Exodus 3:1–4:17	224

The Journal of the Ancient Near Eastern Society 34 (2020)

Preface

After a hiatus of several years, the Journal of the Ancient Near Eastern Society is being published in electronic, internet form only. There is no charge for access. This new format makes the Journal much more widely accessible to interested readers. Since all previous articles are now available at the same website, we hope that readers will also take an interest in scholarship of the preceding years and decades that they have missed until now.

We ask readers to understand that the articles published here now were accepted for publication as many as three or four years ago. We apologize to the patient authors, who in most cases did not make substantial alterations to their work. If any article is lacking in some recent bibliography, the fault is not the authors'.

The first issue of JANES was published almost fifty years ago under the editorship of David Marcus. A few years later the editorship was undertaken by Edward L. Greenstein. For the past three decades and more, the Journal has been edited and largely managed by these two colleagues. With the present issue Shalom E. Holtz, a renowned Assyriologist and Biblicist at Yeshiva University in New York, becomes Managing Editor of the Journal. The present Editors wish Professor Holtz every success as the Journal undergoes renewal and he in the near future takes full charge as Editor.

JANES 35 is already being edited, and we are expecting to publish it relatively soon. We trust that scholars will continue to submit their work to the Journal.

In the early 1980s the Journal, which began at Columbia University, found a new and supportive home at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. We are very grateful for that institution's continued support.